of some fine old Bourbon, he expressed a wish to have a bottle. The porter embraced the opportunity and presented him with a bottle of Wolf river liquid profusely sealed and labeled. He was so favorably impressed with the quality of the liquor he was drinking, he resolved to lay this away for the summer tour. Saturday last he concluded to take it home and deposit it in his wine cellar for future reference. The following Sunday he had occasion to exhibit his accustomed hospitality to a number of friends dining with him, and conscious of their appreciation of the best in the world, he was prompted to bring forth his sour liquid. He drew the cork with great cclat, speaking loud in its praise. On discerning the first of April n the neck he excused himself to go to the nearest drug store to procure a bottle of soothing syrup-for the new-born babe.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Theater.

There was another good house at the Theater last night to enjoy the "Jack and Jill' pantomime entertainment, which was equally as interesting and delightful as that of the previous evening. The different features of this troupe are too varied to admit of mention. All tion this season has afforded more enjoyment and mirth. The plot of the pantomime is in keeping with its main object, and throughout its development be interest and pleasure are unabated.
